CANADA GETS SPY FEVER

· Toronto, May 30. Spy fever has today reached its highest pitch in Canada since 1946, when a Russian cipher-clerk, Igor Gouzenko, exposed to the Canadian authorities the existence of an claborate Soviet spy network.

So far, the excitement is based mestly on speculation. 'The focal points are in Britain, where Dr. Klaus Fuchs-convicted of betraying atom secrets to Russiais under questioning, and in tha United States where the Federal Bureau of Investigation is "grllding" Harry Gold, "go-between" for Fuchs and the Russians.

Nobody in Ottawa will-talk for publication, but the "special seetion" of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is being kept informed of the developments in both countries.

The Defence Committee of the Canadian Fouse of Commons learned last night that Canada's as a complete failure. FaitHary law has been re-drafted with an eye on the prespect that to cope with a 14th column.

Closer co-operation by the Pacific nations BEGINNING NEW

Baguio, May 30.

The five-day conference of seven South East Asia and West Pacific nations ended at noon today. The Conference President, Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines, told the closing plenary session that the deliberations signalled closer co-operation between the participating countries in the interest of world peace.

He added: "But they do not constitute the sum total of achievements of the conference. Many tangible benefits have accrued, a heightened feeling of comradeship, a richer fund of knowledge and mutual understanding about matters of common concern to us, greater confidence that we can accomplish certain tasks more easily together than separately."

The conference fell far short reception in other Far East of binding the nations into a capitals. closes regional unit politically, but is not being written off

The weakness of the parley, attended by Australia, India, Pakistun, Thailand, Ceylon, Indonesia and the Philippines, lies in its political decisions.

When first conceived by President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippines, the conference's announced purpose was to form a union to stem the rising tide of Communism in the Far East. Closer unity China and Korea were willing to participate. The idea got a coo!

Residents on the Peak had a grand view of a battle between Nationalist gunboats and Chinese Communist shore batteries, only a few miles outside Hong Kong's territorial waters.

The first exchange of fire started at about 9.30-p.m. when two Nationalist vessels, one of which was reported to be a large destroyer, began shelling a Chinese Communist-held Island off the Southernmost tip of Lantao Island.

The battle lasted for several hours, the gunfire being audible here, and the exchange of fire clearly visible from the soldiers landed from a small boat Peak. Paris, May 29. A French military aircraft today flew Dongkhe, military post, 20 miles South West of Capbang, near the Vietnamese-Chinese frontier, declared that the situation was now well in hand, the French Press Agency reported from Hanoi, quoting French military quarters.

A military communique said that Vietminh elements had cut Colonial Road No. 4 leading to Dongkhe, presumably to down a French motorised unit heading for the post.

French military quarters said that the importance of the Vietminh attacks against Dongkhe showed that the Victminh wanted a spectacular success to compensate for their recent loss of Phully, 40 miles South of Hanoi which was recently captured by Franco-Vietnamese troops, the French Agency added.

Twenty-five Vietminhese were killed and considerable military booty was captured during the fighting for Phully.

French military observers believe that the Vietminh attack on Dongkhe was nimed at opening big attacks. The use of 51 planes the road leading to Talung, nine on one day recently was a remiles East of Dongkhe, on the Chinese side of the border in Kwangsi Province.

The observers added that Vietminh elements unsuccessfully attacked several French military posts around Caobang, 17 miles North of Dongkhe, Langson, 100 miles North East of Hanol, and Dongdong, seven miles North West of Langson.—Reuter.

Mad owl grabs glasses off men's noses

London, May 30. A bird that looked like an owl power-dived out of the blue today and snatched the spectacles right off the nose of C. J. Orme in suburban Ealing.

A moment later a bird zoomed down on William Kypow, and away went another pair of spectacles. Last week Eric Dowton was sub-Jected to a similar attack, but the bird's aim was poor. Mr. Dowton came out of the affair with scratches on the back of his neak.

This afternoon the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and Owis swung late action. It set an owi trap baited with a pocket mirror. A couple of hours fater inspector Arthur Williams reported that he had got the bird. It was a barn owl and he was mad.

RUSSIA CREATING AN IRON CURTAIN COLD WAR CABINET

Co-ordination of arming and diplomatic policies

London, May 29. Diplomatic advices reaching the Foreign Office indicated today that Kussia may soon set up an Iron Curtain counterpart to the permanent "cold war Cabinet" created by the Atlantic Pact powers.

Some diplomats here expect that the Supreme Soviet, which convenes on June 12, will be confronted with a new diplomatic and defence programme aimed to co-ordinate rearmament and unify the diplomatic policies of Russia and her European and Asiatic partners.

The political side is expected to come under the direct leadership of V.N Molotov, Deputy President of the Soviet Council of Ministers.

He called for the protection of the House of Assembly today the Government's new Group Areas Bill envisaged the provision of separate areas land for the different racial groups by compulsion if neces-

The Bill came up for its second reading in the House of Assembly today. It aims at eventual control of the ownership and occupation of land by the three main racial groups, whites, Africans and coloured people.

After mentioning the envisaged provision of separate areas. Dr. Donges said: "In that respect the Bill proposes a straightforward and clearcut issue on a question of principle, which will have to be squarely met.

"The Bill itself does not proceed to make the demarcations necessary for the various areas. It merely creates the necessary the machinery for doing so over a period of years and in a fair

Very simple

"This ' attempt to effect change-over as smoothly as possible probably makes the measure somewhat complicated and requiring careful consideration."

Dr. Donges said the scheme was very simple, and the immediate effect of the passage of the Bill would be to place every part of the country on a controlled-area basis.

Dr. Donges added dangers of residential juxtaposition had been too frequently confirmed in the history of the past 50 years.

The Durban riots last year were a case in point. Always in the past there had been attempts to see whether the matter could not be solved by voluntary segregation but all the evidence led Irresistibly to the conclusion that yoluntary segregation was no so-

Action necessary

There were others who ware misled by the anti-white propaganda and for that reason it was necessary for the Government to take action.

"The positive advantages of fourth generations, solely on the such a scheme for non-white groups are obvious," he added. "New avenues of employment will be opened which are closed to them today, and if we have a system like this there is no reason why the majority of the services in a particular area should not be conducted by its own

Mr. Strauss added that rushing through of this legislation in the way it was being done would further help to lower the prestige of the Union in the eyes of the outside world.-Reuter.

Russians find mountain range

Washington, May 30. The Russians are very active in the Far North these Discovery of a great range of sub-Arctic mountains by Russian explorers has just been revealed through the Arctic Institute of North America.

Also, it is known that they (are making intensive efforts to develop coal deposits, agricultural production and military bases in Far North regions. For the past decade Russians have been far more active in exploring and developing the Aretic than any other people and are now in the midst of the fourth five-year plan for these activities.

The hitherto unknown mountain range appears to be one of the major geographical discoveries of this generation.

The Arctic Institute report is gathered from many sources, both official and unofficial, but all claims have been validated as far as possible. The mountain discovery came from unprecedented summer floods three years ago on tributaries of the Indigirka River in Eastern Siberia. The source of this river was unknown except that it was known to rise near the maps as Oimyaken, long designated as the coldest spot on earth. This area is drier than the Sahara, yet it was pouring out flood waters.

River's course sought A Russian geologist named Leo Berman set out from the Arctic coast to trace the course of the Indigirka Southward. He and his party travelled on horseback. There were no guides. The Yakut, the Eskimo-like coast natives, never had followed the river for more than a few miles. The explorers finally came a mountain range 95 miles long and about 40 miles wide, with 60 major peaks and numerous glaciers, in an area where no mountains had been expected. Some of the peaks were more than 9,000 feet high, making them the loftlest in Northern Asia, The mountain goats, leaping from erng to crag, showed no fear tot man. They would allow the explurers to come within a few feet before running leisurely away. This was clear evidence, Mr.

Berman and his followers believe, that they were the first human beings in these mountains. Lack of fear of humans is characteristic of animals everywhere before their first contacts. The range has been named Suntar Khayata. The floods apparently were caused by glacier-melting during an unprecedentedly warm sum-

Russian note on Trieste to be rejected

Washington, May 29. Britain, the United States and France are planning separate but parallel hotes rejecting Russia's demand for Trieste to be internationalised.

Government officials said the three Governments are consulting before replying to Russia's stand that the "illegal" British-American base at Trieste must be eliminated before talks on the Austrian peace treaty can be resumed. The State Department's position is that Trieste and

Woodcock v Savold bout could be another fiasco

By JIMMY WILDE

When Bruce Woodcock and Lee Savold last met, the fight ended in a fiasco with Savold being disqualified for a fourth-round low punch that many spectators regarded as accidental. That was 18 months ago. Two days ago the Bri-

The blow which Savold delivered 18 months ago, though undoubtedly low, was, to my mind, innocent, yet under the rules referee Sam Russell had to disqualify him. It should never be overlooked that these footballers have had a very hard season in English League football. Psychologically it is a break for them. Equally so does it mean that they may be tired and played-out men before the tour starts.

The Football Association do everything in their power to offset this by giving them every comfort while on tour, the best hotels, food and transport, that money can buy, but many players are still feeling the effects of the hard season that has gone before.

That being the case should they be sent on tour at the end of the season? A lot of people in England say they should not. That is the chief objection to these tours, that the men cannot do themselves justice, and should not, therefore, be sent. It is damuging to the
